Foundation for Arable Research The plant growth stage is determined by main stem and number of tillers per plant e.g. GS22 is main stem plus 2 tillers up to GS29 main stem plus 9 or more tillers. In Australian cereal crops plants rarely reach GS29 before the main stem starts to stem elongate (GS30). Cereal growth stages - GRDC • For winter cereals, stage 30 represents the shift of the plant from vegetative (prostrate growth habit) to reproductive growth (erect growth habit). • By stage 30, all meaningful tillering has usually been completed. Later tillers are not likely to produce fertile heads. • Stages 31 and 32
